4 Kokushi Office and Ieyasu Palace Historic Sites Square

[1-14 Honmachi, Fuchu-shi]
Kokushi-no-Tachi Hall (Provincial Governor's Office) was located here approximately 1,300 years ago. There is a Musashi Province Scope that recreates scenes from that time using VR.

5 Musashifuchu Kumanojinja Shrine Tomb

[2-9 Nishifuchu, Fuchu-shi (Kumanojinja Shrine precinct)]
This is one of the largest and oldest round-top square-bottom shaped burial mounds in Japan. Observe how it looked when it was constructed around 1,350 years ago. There is also an exhibition hall.

9 Myoko-in Temple
 [1-16-13 Honmachi, Fuchu-shi]
 A beautiful vermilion-lacquered Nio-mon gate stands here. The peaceful sight is attractive with the large ginkgo tree beside the main building and the temple precinct bamboo thicket.

10 DAI-TOKYO Wholesale Market
 [4-1 Yazakicho, Fuchu-shi]
 This is the largest wholesale market in the Tama area. The atmosphere is lively, with shops lined up selling fresh foods, daily products and more.

11 Suntory Tokyo Musashino Brewery
 [3-1 Yazakicho, Fuchu-shi]
 Here you can take a tour of a beer production plant. You can also sample freshly-made beer after the tour. Limited-edition goods are available as souvenirs.

12 JRA Tokyo Racecourse
 [1-1 Hiyoshicho, Fuchu-shi]
 A derby is held here in May when the horses race at this lush green racecourse. Also check out the museum, where there are lots of hands-on exhibits.

13 Babadaimon no Keyaki Namiki (two rows of Zelkova trees along the avenue)
 [Near 1 Miyanishicho / 2 Miyanishicho, Fuchu-shi]
 This National Natural Monument is the symbol of Fuchu. The green tunnel continues for approximately 500 meters.

14 Fuchu Art Museum
 [1-3 Sengencho, Fuchu-shi]
 In addition to the permanent exhibition, there are temporary exhibitions, workshops and public performances held throughout the year.

6 Tama Reien Cemetery
 [4-628 Tamacho, Fuchu-shi]
 Many famous people are buried here in Japan's largest municipal cemetery, which is surrounded by thick greenery. It is also well-known as a site for cherry blossoms.

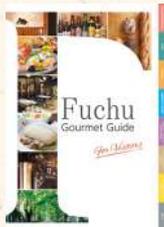

7 Fuchu-no-Mori Park
 [1 Sengencho / 2 Midoricho / 2 Tenjincho, Fuchu-shi]
 The space on top of the small hill is ideal for relaxing. There are also many sport facilities.

8 Sengenyama Park
 [4 Sengencho / 5 Wakamatsucho, Fuchu-shi]
 Enjoy wonderful scenery here that commands a view of Mount Fuji from the 80-meter-high mountaintop. Sengenjinja Shrine is located at the peak of this park.

Fuchu City Center Shopping & Dining

Fuchu Annual Event Calendar

Fuchu hosts everything from historic festivals to events for enjoying seasonal flowers. Create pleasant memories as you view and participate in these events.

冬 Winter

Setsubun Festival (Okunitama-jinja Shrine)

February 3

With the rallying cry "fuku wa uchi" (In with good fortune), celebrities, sport personalities, and popular mascot characters pray for good luck by throwing beans. Many people come to catch the beans as a good omen.

Kyodonomori Ume Plum Festival (Fuchu Municipal Museum Kyodonomori)

Early February to early March

A total of 1,100 plum trees of about 60 different varieties come into bloom at Fuchu Municipal Museum Kyodonomori, which is three times bigger than the Tokyo Dome. Various events are also held during the festival.

春 Spring

Kurayami Matsuri (Darkness Festival) (Okunitama-jinja Shrine)

May 3-6

This festival that is regularly held at Okunitama-jinja used to be celebrated at night. There is a parade featuring eight portable shrines, six giant taiko drums, and 22 festival floats. There are many things to see, including musical performances.

Kyodonomori Hydrangea Festival (Fuchu Municipal Museum Kyodonomori)

Late May to Early July

The arrival of summer is announced by the 10,000 hydrangeas of approximately 30 varieties that adorn the park. The hydrangeas of many different colors shining among the historic reconstructed buildings create a typical Japanese atmosphere.

Sumomo Plum Festival (Okunitama-jinja Shrine)

July 20

Said to have started when Minamoto no Yoriyoshi and his son Yoshiie offered plums to Okunitama-jinja Shrine in honor of their victory, plum stores now line the Shrine precinct area.

夏 Summer

Hassaku Sumo Wrestling Festival (Okunitama-jinja Shrine)

August 1

This festival has its origins in ritual sumo wrestling calling for a great harvest, peace, and tranquility. Today, there are inter-town league matches mainly between elementary school students where you will hear the cheerful voices of children.

Yosakoi in Fuchu (Main stage: Babadaimon no Keyaki Namiki)

Late August

Enjoy the dances of participating teams from Fuchu and elsewhere as they dance along the Zelkova trees, stages set up in the Okunitama-jinja Shrine precinct and shopping areas. Create summer-time memories as you watch and dance together.

秋 Autumn

Kuri Festival (Okunitama-jinja Shrine)

September 27-28

The fact that this area was once famous for kuri (chestnuts) can still be seen at this festival. In addition to selling chestnuts, a magical atmosphere is created by the line of paper lanterns. Don't miss the floats and Fuchu-Hayashi musical performances.

JAZZ in Fuchu (Babadaimon no Keyaki Namiki, etc.)

October

Enjoy free performances by more than 100 bands, both professional and amateur, in locations throughout Fuchu City. The streets of Fuchu are filled with music during this event.
*A minimum order may be required at café venues.

Tori no Ichi (Okunitama-jinja Shrine)

November

This festival to pray for commercial success is held in locations throughout Japan. Lively shouting sounds out among the stalls selling rakes – good luck charms said to "rake in good luck".

冬 Winter

Fuchu Keyakinamiki Illumination + Bamboo Lights (Babadaimon no Keyaki Namiki, etc.)

Mid-November to Late December

Experience a classic winter scene in which the rows of Zelkova trees are illuminated with beautiful lights. The atmosphere is made even more magical by the bamboo lights set up near Fuchu Station.

If an earthquake strikes

If there is a major earthquake, it may be difficult to move from your location depending on the severity of the vibrations, so please give top priority to protecting your head. If you are in the city, please move away from structures such as buildings and take refuge in a nearby park or open space while protecting your head using an item or both hands and being aware of falling objects such as signboards and glass panes. In Fuchu, "refuge areas" have been set up for temporary shelter until the situation calms down. Once the shaking subsides and you are able to move, please take shelter in an "refuge area."

▼ Designated refuge areas

- A Municipal elementary and junior high schools (33 schools)
- B Meisei Gakuen (1 school)
- C Tokyo metropolitan high schools (5 schools)

▼ Regional refuge areas * Please confirm the locations of these areas on the map on pp. 4-5.

If a fire breaks out

What should you do if a fire breaks out in the building while you are shopping or dining? Most deaths during fires are caused by carbon monoxide poisoning or suffocation due to the smoke. When smoke starts to spread, it's easy to panic, and difficult to escape. A loud bell sound will go off if there is a fire, so if you hear this sound, please cover your mouth with a handkerchief or similar item, and immediately take refuge outside the building.

If a typhoon or local downpour strikes

In the case of heavy rain or a typhoon, etc., overflowing or inundation of the Tama River may cause flooding. If that happens, it is important to quickly take refuge before flooding occurs, due to the danger a flood poses to visibility. In Fuchu, flood hazard maps are distributed in English, Chinese and Korean, so please check them in advance.
