Welcome to Musashino city!

Musashino-shi is one of the fascinating towns representing metropolitan area. Many citizens are living here and lots of unique shops are gathering. The city has provided the settings for various literary works, art works, animated films and so on. It has kept offering enchantment and comfort for people to come together since long time ago. From ancient times, the area around Inokashira Pond has been a place of springing water. We found out from remains that many people had already gathered here, seeking rich harvest and hunting prey since the Kyu-Sekki (Old Stone) age and the Jomon period. The establishment of the town was in the early Edo Period by the people living in the vicinity of Suwasan-Kichijoji Temple in Suido-bashi, central Tokyo. The villages and towns formed in front of this temple was burnt down by the Great Fire of Meireki in 1675. Then the people living there moved here, naming it Kichijoji. They developed the Musashino plateau and formed 4 villages. In the Meiji period, a railroad was constructed, and eventually the town had expanded gradually. In the Taisho Period, Inokashira Park opened as the first suburban park in Japan, and has become one of popular outing spots. At the same period, the Kanto Great Earthquake prompted many people to move here from downtown Tokyo, and the town was urbanized quickly. In the early Showa Period, the leading manufacturer in Japan and said to be the largest in the East at that time, Musashino Plant of Nakajima Aircraft Manufacturing, was constructed. Then, people persevered in the turmoil of the post war, and the town has come to life again and still continues developing.

Please use this booklet as a guide and enjoy walking around the city.

About the area

The area has various attractive elements such as fashion, gourmet, culture as well as nature. And this area within just 300 meters from the station is so convenient that people can enjoy all different kinds of activities; eating, shopping, or even relaxing in nature. This is one of the biggest reasons why this city has been ranked as one of the most "desirable city to live in" for many years. In addition to it, its unique culture and atmosphere have always inspired many creators in different fields such as anime or music, making the area somewhat the core of Japanese subculture.

History

Its development as commercial and residential area started sometime between the Edo and the Meiji period. One of the biggest factors in its growth was when many residents around the temple "Kichijoji" in the downtown Tokyo lost their homes in the Great Fire of Meireki. In search of a new place to live in, people started settling along Itsukaichi Kaido Road and named the area after the temple. After that, in 1899, Kichijoji Station opened, which made influence on the area's development. Also in 1923, due to the Great Kanto Earthquake, many people moved out of central Tokyo and settled around this area, which led the town urbanized. After war, black-market stalls appeared around the station and eventually the town has developed to the city what it is today.

About the area

Major facilities that support residents' everyday lives are concentrated in this area; such as the city hall, the police station, health care center, cultural hall, central library etc. At the same time, though it is a quiet residential area, there are many major companies, restaurant chain headquarters, animation studios, etc., as well as places where you can relax in the lush greenery. At the rotary in front of the station (at the north exit of Mitaka Station), the World Federation Peace Statue by Seibo Kitamura, the first honorary citizen of Musashino-shi, welcomes visitors.

History

Talking of the history of this area, the Nakajima Aircraft Musashi Factory is what you cannot miss. Until the end of World War II, the factory was known as the largest military aircraft engine manufacturer in the East. From 1938 until the end of the war, it occupied the wide area stretching from Midori-cho to Yawata-cho (at present). It is said that Mitaka Station North Exit was constructed in 1941 for the factory workers. A part of the site of the factory is now changed to Musashino Chuo Park and the City Hall. The park is now known as the mecca of flying paper plane and has become the venue of paper plane meetings.

They actively participate in events in Musashino-shi and Kichijoji, and have "Reading classes for adults" (held irregularly) at their rehearsal hall, which are also popular among attendance.

Kichijoji MAP D-3 | Zenshinza Building 2-4-3, Kichijoji-minamicho, Musashino-shi Phone: 0422-49-2811

Their most important work is "The Red Monster Cried". It is the heart warming masterpiece which depicts true friendship that can only be understood after it is lost.

A fantastic stage with balefires.

Musashino city's autumn tradition Kichijoji Noh Theater Performance

A theatrical art held every autumn since 1986. It is performed on a stage in front of an old tree (zelkova) in Gessoji Temple. Enjoy watching the Japanese traditional art form.

What is MuBus?

MuBus is a local community bus mainly running through areas around Kichijoji Station, Mitaka Station North Exit and Musashisakai Station. It offers seven different routes. The name MuBus came from rhyming with “MOVE US” and also taking the “Mu” from Musashino. It's a small bus, 7 meters tall and 2 meters wide, which fits 29 people. It has been running since 1995 and it is 100 yen a ride.

Make a trip around Musashino-shi on a route bus!

Kanto Bus running in the city is offering a one-day ticket for 630 yen for an adult, and 320 yen for a child. How to buy the ticket: Upon riding the Kanto bus, ask the bus driver to register it on PASMO or Suica. Pay attention to your card balance so that the fare is deducted. As the bus routes include the ones connecting JR Chuo Line and Seibu Shinjuku Line, use the service for your convenience.

A friendly local transportation service, “Community bus”.
